THE JULIAN TRIAL in Los Angeles has ended. Its result reveals once more that the American judicial system, when faced with the wealthy and, therefore, influential elements of the community, often refuses to function. It was over a year ago that the Julian Petroleum Corporation crashed, and 40,000 Southern Californians, most of them of exceedingly moderate means, found that they had been swindled out of from twenty to forty millions of dollars. They had been induced to buy approximately 3,000,000 worthless shares of oil stock which were issued without permission from the State corporation commissioners. When the market became flooded with this "ever-burn" the price of "Julian Pets" dropped in a few weeks from $15 to nothing. Of course, the millions of dollars that were taken in are nowhere to be found, although some of the most eminent citizens of Southern California were shown to have received part of the loot. Some fifty-two were sufficiently involved to be indicted—among them Harry M. Haldeman, president of the Better America Federation; Charles E. Stern, president of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank; three vice-presidents of the same bank; and Louis B. Mayer, general manager of the Goldwyn-Mayer Production Corporation—but they have all escaped scot-free. The trial itself lasted eighty-three court days and produced eighty-nine volumes of transcript, but did not, according to the jury, furnish sufficient evidence to support the "conspiracy" charge upon which the indictments were based. Thus the eleven persons who were tried were acquitted while the indictments against forty-one other persons were dismissed. Until now we thought that the city of Washington was the sole claimant to the title of the best District of Acquittal in America. This new performance, however, makes Los Angeles a strong contender for the 1928 award.
